World-premiere of the new Väderstad Seed Hawk 600-900C at Agritechnica 2023

Väderstad, one of the world's leading companies in tillage and seeding, introduces the new no-till seed drill Seed Hawk 600-900C. Built on the well-proven Seed Hawk knife coulter concept, the new Seed Hawk 600-900C is designed for the European and International markets.

Väderstad has over 30 years of experience of leading the no-till industry in Canada. The Väderstad Seed Hawk is known for its precision, versatility, and ability to maximise the yield potential in no-till conditions.

– We are glad to announce that soon a new member in the Seed Hawk family will enter the European and International markets - the new Väderstad Seed Hawk 600-900C, says Björn Jeansson, Director Seed Drills Product Management, at Väderstad, and continues:

– Seed Hawk 600-900C is a completely new machine, built around the well-proven Seed Hawk knife coulter system.

Seed Hawk 600-900C has a large hopper with three compartments, offering full seed- and fertiliser versatility. It utilizes the highly precise Fenix III metering system to ensure an even product flow to the seed- and fertiliser coulters, and the machine is operated via the iPad-based control system Väderstad E-Control. To ensure field performance when seeding directly in heavy crop residues or after cover crops, the Seed Hawk knife coulter can be complemented with a front disc as an option.

– We look forward to meeting farmers at Agritechnica later this year, where the new Seed Hawk 600-900C will be presented for the first time in the world, says Björn Jeansson.

The new no-till seed drill Väderstad Seed Hawk 600-900C will have its world-premiere at the international tradeshow Agritechnica, in Hannover in November 2023. It will be available to order in the end of 2024, with first serial produced machines going out to the field in the beginning of 2025.
